SDN WEEK 2008

FEBRUARY 19 - 29

Fostering an Inclusive and Sustainable Globalization

CLIMATE CHANGE FOR DEVELOPMENT PROFESSIONALS (CCDP)

The World Bank is positioned to play a leadership role in addressing Climate Change. This is one of our biggest development issues and it is important for WB staff to enhance their understanding of the implications of climate change for their day-to-day work, and in the regions/countries and localities in which they operate. The Sustainable Development Network (SDN), in collaboration with the World Bank Institute (WBI), has the pleasure to announce the course on Climate Change for Development Professionals (CCDP). Participants will review the basics of Climate Change science and international negotiations to date, and then focus on mitigation and adaptation steps within the context of their operational day-to-day work.

OBJECTIVES:

- To raise awareness among WBG staff and ensure a common understanding and knowledge platform on the most important facts and implications of Climate Change.
- To find and use appropriate tools and instruments to mainstream climate change into operations.

TARGET GROUP: WBG staff levels GE +

DATE & VENUE: SDN Learning Week, February 25th and a repeat session on February 28th.

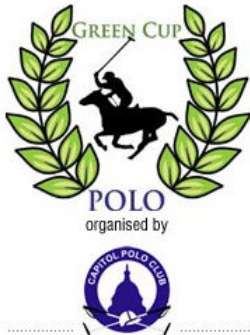

CONTACT: Ian Noble (ENV) Ext. 31329 and Marianna Clare O'Gorman (HRSD) Ext. 30877

The CCDP program launches at SDN Learning Week so please register early, as there are limited spaces available for each of the two sessions.
